DANGER

Important Information on Fraudulent Scams

DANGER

Generally fraudulent emails want you to verify your account information due to a security breach. If you don't know where an email came from, call your financial institution – but use a phone number from your statement. Do NOT use any phone number listed in the email! If you suspect you have been a victim, call the police immediately. Also, report it to your financial institution and closely monitor your credit reports. An email is probably fraudulent if the message:

- Comes from a financial institution where you do not have an account.
- Advertises a service you have never used.
- Contains misspellings or poor grammar.
- Asks you to update personal information online and provides a link.
- Claims your service will be suspended or cancelled unless you update your information.
- Requests that you send money overseas.

ATTENTION ALL MEMBERS

Inactive accounts for more than five years are considered to be

UNCLAIMED FUNDS

by the State of Ohio and have to be released to the State.

Please take the time to check your account activity and make a deposit to activate it. If you are concerned, call the office for more information regarding your account status.
